

James S. Wheeler, PharmD, BCPS

Biographical Sketch

James Wheeler is an Assistant Professor of Clinical Pharmacy and Translational Science at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center, Knoxville campus. He received his BS in 2007 from the University of Tennessee, Chattanooga, and his PharmD from the University of Tennessee in 2011. He completed a Pharmacotherapy Residency at the UT Medical Center in Knoxville from 2011 to 2013.

Following residency, Dr. Wheeler spent 2 years on the faculty at Wingate University School of Pharmacy in Charlotte, NC, then in July, 2015, joined the UT College of Pharmacy faculty. He teaches drug information, medication safety, and pulmonary medicine coursework at UT and serves as the Director of Continuing Education and Professional Development for the College of Pharmacy. His research interests include the opioid crisis, interprofessional education, continuing professional development, and workforce development.